2019

SUNDAY, MAY 5, 2019
BRIDGEWATER-RARITAN HIGH SCHOOL
BRIDGEWATER, NJ

WELCOME...!

It is my distinct pleasure to welcome each and every one of you to Kean University for the 2019 New Jersey Band Gala. Today we will hear 12 of the finest New Jersey high school concert bands / wind ensembles that have each recently distinguished themselves with an outstanding performance at their respective regional band festivals. On behalf of the executive board of the New Jersey Band Association (NJBA), it is my pleasure to congratulate the band directors and their student musicians for their dedication to excellence, which has led to their participation in this year's annual New Jersey State Band Gala. Their outstanding achievements serve as a model and inspiration to all of us who find great satisfaction in the fact that quality music education does reside in New Jersey. Congratulations!

I would also like to take this opportunity to thank the many school administrators and school staff members who actively champion music education in the school setting. Without their true support, musical performance would remain an unknown art form as well as an unknown form of personal expression for many of today's performers. I know that it is often very difficult to convince others of the long-term value of arts education, in spite of the fact that it remains at the core of our humanity. I thank you for all that you do to provide the opportunity for the students of your school district to receive a full and enriching education.

I also wish to thank the parents and other family members who have supported these young people in all of their endeavors, not the least of which has been their development as musicians. Parents, you hold the key to creating a brighter future for our world. Thank you for all that you do.

Last but not least, I wish to once again congratulate the conductors of each ensemble for the exceptional work that they do in teaching excellence through music performance in their respective communities.

Sincerely,

Thomas N. Connors, Ph.D.

John P. Stevens High School Wind Ensemble hails from a music program truly devoted to providing a variety of opportunities to its young musicians. All members of the wind ensemble perform monthly in a small ensemble of their choice, and are encouraged to reach out and serve the community. Individuals are stimulated to challenge themselves by auditioning for region and statewide ensembles each year. We take pride in having represented the state of New Jersey as having the most number of students from one school for both Region and All-State level bands, consistently over the past two decades. Whether it's serving the community at local tree-lightings, township festivals, parades, or performing at local and statewide festivals, these diligent and bright musicians continuously bring their musical involvement to the highest level possible.

NEW JERSEY STATE BAND GALA

The New Jersey State Band Gala Concert is an annual educational activity that serves more than 750 instrumental music students from New Jersey's public high schools in a day-long series of performances.

The Gala Concert is the culmination of a larger, statewide educational program, the New Jersey State Band Festival, which encourages the participation of every high school band in the state. The high school bands that perform in the Gala Concert are chosen through a series of three competitive preliminary rounds in three regions of the state: north, central and south. Each year, more than 150 high school bands from all over New Jersey participate in the preliminary rounds of the New Jersey Band Festival. Because of the high degree of preparation and practice that each band and its individuals members devote to this activity, the New Jersey Band Festival fosters personal growth and achievement for nearly 10,000 music students in New Jersey each year.

In years past, a very small proportion of New Jersey music ensembles were capable of more than a moderate level of achievement when compared to ensembles from other parts of the country. However, since the inauguration of the statewide festival, the level has improved dramatically. Currently bands from New Jersey travel to competitions throughout the United States and Europe and return with outstanding success. Such success can be directly attributable to the statewide band festival and the culminating Concert Gala. The Gala has become the foremost musical goal of bands in the State of New Jersey.

Now in its 37th season, the New Jersey State Band Festival was established in 1983 by Dr. William H. Silvester, then Director of Bands at The College of New Jersey, who served as the festival's administrator for 15 years. In 1998, after fifteen years of operation, the festival grew too large to run at TCNJ, and so a new, expanded organization was developed, under the direction of Darryl J. Bott.

With the establishment of the New Jersey Band Association in 2006, it was decided that the New Jersey State Band Gala Concerts would take place under the sponsorship of the newly-formed association. This year, the administration of the Gala is once again under the direction of Darryl J. Bott, Director of University Bands at Rutgers University.

Since the inception of the Gala, the number of music students staying within the state to study music on the college level has been remarkable. The road to the Gala has been a significant incentive for high school-age students to become involved in music and many of them see the benefits of staying in-state to study. In turn, the music education graduates of our state colleges are entering the field with higher goals and expectations, and are helping to continue to raise the level of music in New Jersey's schools.
